The University of Adelaide unites and serves those striving to change the world – and themselves – for the better.

Established in 1874, Adelaide is home to over 29,000 students and 3,000 staff, all working to create progress – for its community and for all. It's a university of outstanding quality, ranked among the top 1% globally, with headquarters in the heart of Australia's most liveable city*.

Relentlessly progressive

The University of Adelaide has made a habit of breaking new ground. It was Australia's first university to welcome female students. The first to offer science and business degrees. The first with a conservatorium of music.

Among those who've studied, taught, or conducted research there are Australia's first female prime minister; the first Australian astronaut to walk in space; Australia's first Indigenous Rhodes Scholar; and Australia's first female Supreme Court judge, state governor and university chancellor. That's in addition to the 2021 Young Australian of the Year; 2020 Australian of the Year; and five Nobel Prize winners.

Exceptional research and education

Adelaide's bold spirit continues to drive it to excel. In research, it's rising to challenges in a huge range of fields, with work universally rated world-standard or above^. In fact, its output is recognised as 'well above' world standard in 41 distinct areas. These range from engineering, mathematics and science, to medical and health sciences, agriculture, and artificial intelligence.

In education, it's recognised among the top 100 universities globally in 23 different subject areas†. And it's ranked #1 in South Australia for graduate employability<sup>**</sup>. At Adelaide, you'll gain both deep discipline knowledge and broad, transferable skills, ensuring you emerge well prepared for a multidimensional career in the future workforce.

Campus now open in Melbourne, Victoria

In 2020, the University of Adelaide opened an interstate campus for the first time in its 147-year history. Located on the Melbourne central business district's western fringe, the campus provides an innovative, 21st-century education to a growing community of learners, with the same exceptional teaching and student experience that the University is renowned for.

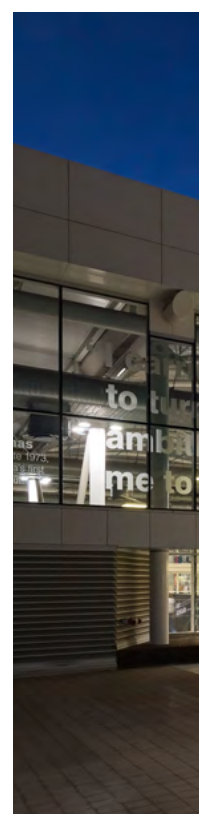

Wherever you study with the University of Adelaide – whether in Adelaide, Melbourne or online – you'll gain the tools to make history.

STUDENT STORIES

A university pathway can really empower you to follow your own path to success. Hear what our current and past international students have to say about their experience learning online at the University of Adelaide College.

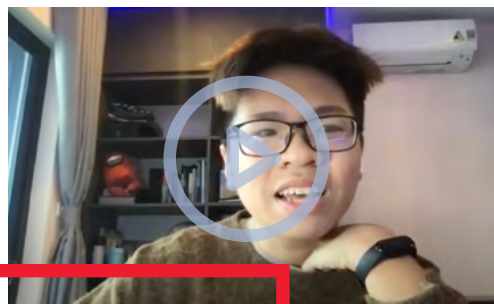

‘I think that a lot of people are afraid that studying online will be a barrier. I chose to study online as I wanted to get familiar with the subjects and study programs in Australia, while still living at home with my parents. I became a strong, independent learner over the last year. The teachers at the College were really supportive and encouraged me to keep asking questions. I did my Foundation Studies Program 100% online and was Dux for my cohort in 2021 and received my offer to a Bachelor of Architectural Design at the University of Adelaide.’

‘I was so worried about studying online as I didn’t think the online class could be as effective as a real one. But, fortunately I completed the Foundation Studies Program course successfully. I’m not really a top student of any subject in our class, but my overall grades were enough for me to go to the University of Adelaide. I really appreciated the support from my teachers. I think the most important thing about online learning is to actively communicate with your teachers and if you have any questions, feel free to ask your teacher and your classmates as soon as possible.’

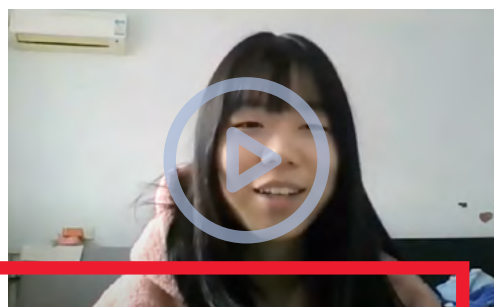

‘I had been preparing to come to Australia for months, so was really disappointed when I learnt that I would be studying online, but the experience has been good for me! When I didn’t understand something in class, I would go back to the Zoom recording of the lesson. That’s the time I take notes and get organised. At first, I didn’t expect my grades to be so high, because the final exams were not as easy as I thought...so, it turned out better than my expectations. I was runner up Dux in my cohort and got my offer to study a Bachelor of Laws at the University of Adelaide.’
